ill rial l , n: . Lawrence, the younger, had been a delicate youlh. He had qualified as a doctor out early relinquished the profession 01 medicine, and lived at home while pursuing litemry ambnions; though his verses never had any marked success. John practiced for some me as a barrister. but had nally settled down to the more congenial life of a oountry squire. He had married two years ago, and had taken his wife to Ilve at Styles, though I entertained a shrewd suspicion that he would have prelerred his motherto increase his allowance, which would have enabled him to have a home DI his own. Mrs. Cavendish. howeyer. was a lady who liked to make her own plans.
